Comments:

On December 1, 2007, the Jazz Arts Trio will make its debut in a recital to benefit the Bell Center for the Arts.

The Jazz Arts Trio can safely be called the only jazz trio of its kind, a unique synthesis of classical and jazz traditions that is certain to confound the genre police. They have transcribed, note-for-note, recorded performances of the trios of such jazz giants as Oscar Peterson, Herbie Hancock, Bill Evans, Vince Guaraldi, Horace Silver and Erroll Garner. On December 1, they will bring to life these works that would otherwise only live on in recordings.

The group approaches the music in much the same way a classical ensemble approaches Beethoven or Brahms, the goal not being simply to imitate, but also to interpret the music and make it their own.

Longtime friends, the members of the Jazz Arts Trio began playing together over 30 years ago while in high school in the Boston area.

Personnel:

Frederick Moyer, Piano
Peter Fraenkel, Drums
Peter Tillotson, Bass
