MOYER LIBRARY CONCERT REVIEWED

New Rochelle, NY November 22, 2010 - In a recital held at the Ossie Davis Theater at the New Rochelle Public Library in New Rochelle, NY, pianist Frederick Moyer performed pieces by Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, and Schumann and wowed the packed crowd.

During his most recent tour, Moyer has been making frequent stops at libraries across the country. Suzanne Rothberg of the New Rochelle Patch caught up with Moyer to discuss the recital and his library performances. “I love the idea of public libraries having concerts. I play at libraries all over the country —there's something that's so right about it; it's an intimate setting,” said the pianist.

Following the concert one member of the audience proclaimed, “I enjoyed it so much—he can do anything with classical music and jazz; it was beautiful. I would recommend it to anyone. It was so informative and he was so appealing with the audience...There wasn't anybody in the audience who didn't enjoy it.” Another stated “I thought he was wonderful—not only is he a great pianist but he's also a great storyteller and he was charming, warm and just delightful. We're lucky to have somebody do this in New Rochelle.”
